

JACQUELINE DI CAMILLO

For this position, you're seeking a qualified senior professional with some key ingredients: senior management, visionary, liaison, decision-making, result orientation, global vision working with diverse cultures, using influence rather than authority to impact/change business and strategic orientation. Am I right?

First, I possess in-depth experience as a Senior Executive. Managing and overseeing complex, diverse and large-scale operations (HR, Healthcare, Education, Administration, IT, Audit and Strategy) in a multicultural environment (Americas, Africa, Asia, Middle East and Europe). Using an excellent interpersonal, clear communication, leadership and negotiation skills to deliver complex solutions in multiple locations (globally). I guide and assist the institution to better understand how to achieve top-quality service. I have 30 years of experience not just to deliver what was expected but to exceed expectations working the second mile as a visionary. My management style is a participatory one when I lead by example rather than by authorities. Lead a team of more than 500 people and budget of $700MM.

Second, you're seeking a candidate with intricate knowledge of interaction with all levels in the institution, as well as, a lead able to create the standards, frameworks and procedures, as well as, to work in reengineering of the process according with the global vision of the institution but in the meantime work together with the senior level team to support the business plan.

By the end, the most important for me is to know if your institution is really looking for senior executive, able to manage not just IT but Strategic business change and transformation of an organization on global basis. If yes, I am more than able to discuss my qualifications further, or to answer questions, please contact me.

I look forward to discussing this opportunity with you.

Thanks for giving my request your consideration.

Sincerely,

Jacqueline Di Camillo
